CHINON

Clos de l'Écho

A superb estate facing the Château of Chinon.

The Clos de l'Écho is without a doubt one of first vineyards around the Château and in Chinon.

It once belonged to the family of the famous humanist François Rabelais.

It owes its name to the echo which can be heard when tourist from all horizons shout in front of the royal walls of the castle.

The property was bought by René and Madeleine Couly in 1952.

At the time wheat was grown there. Then, vine was planted and soon some of the greatest wines in chinon were produced.
