MÂCON-LOCHÉ

Loche, a small village in southern Burgundy, deserves the attention of the visitor. Narrow streets and church of the XII century in a village are picturesque and enjoyable.

The vine is ubiquitous and part of its history. Clay-limestone exposed to the east has all the requirements for the development of fine wines.

In the heart of this village is where our field is located. Born of first winemaking in 1990, it became the hard work and belief, family structure established.

We have always emphasized the quality of work and careful relationship to our land, to our vineyards and our clients for optimum results. So naturally we have turned to practices under the Biodynamics - with reference to Demeter, who supports our approach.

We cultivate an area of 11 hectares spread around the village of Loches (Macon). Since 2001, we have removed any chemical herbicide. The area is certified by Ecocert Organic Agriculture (AB) as well as biodynamic (Demeter) for 2006 harvest. Aerial view of log and the location of our vineyards: plan of plots

Detailed Description

This wine is made from Chardonnay grapes. We strive, through sound practices of soil, water, living beings and the natural rhythms to give it the opportunity to express all of its more subtle flavors.
