

MAIMAI

SYRAH 2013

HAWKES BAY

NEW ZEALAND

New Zealand's North Island is warm enough to ripen grapes such as syrah and cabernet sauvignon. This lively syrah is fresh and vibrant, with dark-fruit flavors and a hint of carbon dioxide spritz apparent when the screw cap is first opened. It's easy to drink but cries out for simple meat dishes. ABV:

13.5 percent.

The Washington Post

Distributed by Elite Wines®

MAIMAI

SYRAH 2013

HAWKES BAY

NEW ZEALAND

New Zealand's North Island is warm enough to ripen grapes such as syrah and cabernet sauvignon. This lively syrah is fresh and vibrant, with dark-fruit flavors and a hint of carbon dioxide spritz apparent when the screw cap is first opened. It's easy to drink but cries out for simple meat dishes. ABV:

13.5 percent.

The Washington Post

Distributed by Elite Wines®

MAIMAI

SYRAH 2013

HAWKES BAY

NEW ZEALAND

New Zealand's North Island is warm enough to ripen grapes such as syrah and cabernet sauvignon. This lively syrah is fresh and vibrant, with dark-fruit flavors and a hint of carbon dioxide spritz apparent when the screw cap is first opened. It's easy to drink but cries out for simple meat dishes. ABV:

13.5 percent.

The Washington Post

Distributed by Elite Wines®

MAIMAI

SYRAH 2013

HAWKES BAY

NEW ZEALAND

New Zealand's North Island is warm enough to ripen grapes such as syrah and cabernet sauvignon. This lively syrah is fresh and vibrant, with dark-fruit flavors and a hint of carbon dioxide spritz apparent when the screw cap is first opened. It's easy to drink but cries out for simple meat dishes. ABV:

13.5 percent.

The Washington Post

Distributed by Elite Wines®